Gentlemen: Attention: Mr. J. R. Brown, Albany

At the request of Mr. H. Herman Hitchcock of this place, who is now in Florida, I return your record blank on Jonathan Dorr, made out in as far as I am able to obtain information about him from members of his family now living here.

You will note that this is confined to: his birth on August 29, 1789 here, the son of Jonathan Dorr, b. Jan. 1, 1762 at Lyne, Conn., and at the time a practicing physician and surgeon here, and of Margaret Faulkner; and his death on Dec. 4, 1852 at Burlington, Otsego Co., N. Y. I note that Mr. Hitchcock has written in the date of death as 1840 at Cambridge, but the date and place I have given was given me by Miss L. F. Gray, who is a direct descendant of the father, Jonathan Dorr, and was, I understood, obtained from family records. As far as I can find out, there were only three Jonathan Dorr's - the father, whose birth date I have given - this son - and a grandson who was half-witted.

The family suggest that by writing to Burlington, where Mr. Dorr spent his mature life and died, you might obtain further information. They have a record that he married, went there to live and that children were born to him, but no record of his wife's name, or the names of the children, and nothing further as to his own personal history.

Mr. Hitchcock thought I might be able to supplement, I believe, from old files of The POST, the local paper of which I am now editor. This paper was started in 1788, but unfortunately we have no files back of 1849.

Hoping that this may be of some assistance to you,

Very truly,

Elizabeth A. Smart
