

1805

JOB McLAREN

DIED: At New-York, John M'Laren, B.A., aged 35 years, eldest son of Daniel M'Laren. He graduated at Union College in the year 1804, and was esteemed one of the first mathematical scholars of that time.

Albany Gazette
May 4, 1821.

JOB MCLAREN, 1805, a resident of New York City, was a member of the Philomathean Society. He died in 1821

Philomathean Catalogue 1830.

UCSLoF1805 mclaren-j-0002

1805

JOB McLAREN

DIED:-Yesterday noon, after a lingering illness, John M'Laren, A. B., aged 35 years, eldest son of Daniel M'Laren, sen. He graduated from Union College in the year 1804, and was esteemed one of the first mathematical scholars of that time, he was conversant with the various languages, and accounted one of the best proof correctors in the country. He was interred yesterday afternoon, lamented by all who knew him.

The American
New York City
April 30, 1821 (Monday)

1805

Job McLaren

Died: Sunday noon, after a short illness, Job McLaren, A. B., aged 35 years, eldest son of Daniel McLaren, sen. - New York Atherton, May 1, 1821 (Tuesday).

Job Mc Laren - AB-1805

Job Mc Laren

F.B.
1805