Biographical Note: Renowned corporate, constitutional and civil rights lawyer Louis Marshall brought his four children, James, Bob, George and Ruth to the Adirondacks to their camp at Knollwood igniting a lifelong love of and dedication to the wilderness in them all. Bob and George would continue their father's work to protect the wilderness and become well-known preservationists and authors.

Scope and Content Note: The albums contain photographs of the Marshall Family and their family and friends at Knollwood on Lower Saranac Lake and hiking, camping and fishing in the Adirondacks. The papers also contain a few photographs of Bob Marshall sent to the family after his death by Mrs. Virginia B. Olmstead.
