A CURIOUS COLLEGE PUBLICATION.

"The Shanghai Echo."

Among the many exchanges received by The Concordiensis there is none which arouses greater interest than the St. John's Echo. This is a bi-monthly published in Shanghai by the students of the college whose name the paper bears. Yet not only is our interest aroused, for that is natural with a paper which comes thousands of miles and is published under such unusual conditions, but our admiration as well, for we receive few neater and better edited exchanges.

When the board of editors is examined and it is found to be made up of men who bear such names as Yuen, Tsur, Chang Woo and Dzurg, it is hard to realize that such an excellent publication in English can be their work. And, from the amount of news published, they must be as efficient reporters as editors, for little seems to escape their notice, either in the college at large or among their societies and alumni.

Their literary articles are given considerable prominence, and they certainly deserve it, judging both from the subjects dealt with and the quality of the treatment given. National topics seem to be the favorites, and such subjects as "The Alliance Between China and Japan," "Are the European Nations Justified in Partitioning China," "Chinese Folklore," and "Should the Municipal Authorities Establish a School for the Education of Chinese Children," are dealt with in a thorough and interesting manner. Religious and moral questions are also considered and in one of the issues, an excellent comparison is drawn between Confucianism and Christianity. While carefully showing the points of harmony between the two doctrines, this article, by quiet suggestions, indicates the superiority of Christianity over its opponent. An article headed the "Value of Education" is worthy of special mention for its thoughtful treatment of the subject. The writer first deals with the theoretical side of the question and shows that the failures of Chinese educators have been due to their inability to grasp the true character of education, that it is much more than the mere training of the memory. He then discusses the practical side and illustrates and proves its value by experiences from every day life. Another shows the evils of foot-binding and offers suggestions as to the most practical way of remedying the evil. We may take these as illustrations of the spirit of the Echo, which seems to be striving to raise both the moral and mental standards of the people.

The literary department, however, is not given up entirely to discussions of serious topics, for we find stories that one might think were copied from the magazines of our land but for their oriental flavor. Even the serial has found its way to that distant editorial room, and expectation must be as pleasant to the Chinese as to Americans, judging from the number of times "to be continued" appears in the few issues at hand. Later the best example of fiction is a story on "Spooks and Wonders in China." It defines them and tells of their haunts, their appearances, their quarrels and the mediums through which they act, and gives many vivid illustrations of their power to create mischief.

The Echo has a well managed news department also, and is to be congratulated on its efficiency, although the items appear rather strange to an American college student. It is mentioned that as the proprietor and manager of a circus wished the students to visit their show, "the whole college, except a few, after receiving permission from the President, went and enjoyed a comfortable look at the various parts of the exhibition." It is hard to imagine how a whole college could go to a circus and not create trouble when a troupe can hardly pass through the streets of a college town here without getting into some sort of difficulty. Yet it is mentioned in the Echo only as a matter of passing interest and not as a phenomenal case.

The college seems to have its full share of clubs, and many columns are filled with the news of the Y. M. C. A., a literary and debating society, a mutual improvement club, a teachers' useful knowledge society and of chess and tennis clubs, and in stirring up the alumni to form an association "like those in America." With such a list of organizations the life of the Chinese student can not differ greatly from that in our colleges, and the only suggestion which could be offered is for them to organize either a musical association or a press club to be thoroughly equipped.

Another bond of union between their college and ours is found in an article in which the information is given that "a long talked of building is now proceeding rapidly, and very likely by the next issue a fair account of the structure may be given." A matter of a few thousands of miles is as nothing when long talked of buildings are mentioned, and we feel as if we are on common ground when such news is read in an exchange and the work of construction is seen begun on our own campus. And again, under the headline of "Repairs in Vacation," the mention of ceilings painted and walls white-washed vividly records memories of the dormitories on the first day of the fall term.

One society which was omitted from the list but which seems to be worthy of special mention is "Tien Tsu-hui," or Natural Feet Society. From the accounts of its work it seems to be a progressive organization, making great efforts to accomplish its purpose; but if it really is trying to live up to its name it ought to send a few missionaries over here to the land of the "campus-boot," for we shall soon need some such organization.

The marriage of one of the students is announced, and the item says that "all his school-mates attended the wedding; the occasion a most enjoyable one." That is truly an oriental way of procedure and contrasts strangely with our custom, which seems to prescribe that, if a student gets married during his course, he shall keep it secret as long as possible and then do his best to live it down.

From many things in these papers we see that students are the same the world over, and it is interesting to compare by means of college publications the life in an American college with that found in a Chinese institution. If the Echo is the work of students who have received but the average English education the college papers in America will soon have successful rivals in China and will have to exert themselves to keep ahead of the "sons of the celestial kingdom."

The preliminary contest for appointment in the Junior and Sophomore prize-speaking at Commencement took place in the college chapel Monday evening. The following contestants took part: Sophomores—Lester W. Bloch, "The Young Man in Present and Past History;" Leon S. Bahny, "Has America Reached Its Zenith?"; Raymond R. Crim, "The Value of Classical Learning;" Addison H. Hinman, "The Friend of the Black Man." Juniors—Joseph H. Clements, Jr., "The Twentieth Century Statesman;" Arthur S. Golden, "Alexander Hamilton;" Leopold Minkin, "The Masses and the Classes;" Wellington E. Van Wormer, "Immigration."

After a unanimous decision the following speakers were chosen: Sophomores—Leon S. Bahny, Raymond R. Crim and A. H. Hinman. Juniors—A. S. Golden, L. Minkin and W. E. Van Wormer.

Union Wins Out in a Pitcher's Battle.

A gilt-edged article in the way of base ball was put by both the Colgate and Union teams on the campus last Wednesday. Though the home team scored more runs, yet the visitors played an almost errorless game. Colgate's aggregation had great team work. Very few hits were made off either pitcher. Arnold for Colgate, pitched an excellent game, though in pitching abilities he fell somewhat below Witbeck, who has six men struck out to his credit.

The game kept the spectators on edge from its very start. Both nines got two men on bases several times only to see the next batter up fan out or send an easy infield grounder. Colgate executed a snappy double play in the middle of the game. The score:

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR UNION.

Witbeck Continues His Star Pitching.

Union defeated Middlebury in an interesting game on the campus Saturday afternoon. The score was a decided change from the first game with the Vermonters. Neither side scored until the last of the third inning when Union chalked down five runs. In the fourth Middlebury sent two men across the plate; in the sixth, one more; in the seventh Middlebury again scored two and Union wound up the eighth with two, making her total eight to Middlebury's four. Drake, the out of town twirler, pitched fairly good ball though he was hit hard at times. Witbeck put up another stellar performance, striking out eight men. Griswold held his own behind the plate and did some phenomenal base running. Parker in centre field, and Paige on first base, played good ball. The home nine, on the whole, exhibited the best fielding game of the season. The summary:

CLOSING CENTURY SONG.

Air: "Juanita."

Bright is the gleaming
Of the sunset's golden glow,
Its splendor streaming
Where the zephyrs blow.
'Tis the vesper fading
Of the century's last year,
With grand fame pervading
This old college dear.

CHORUS.

Union, old Union,
Thy true sons we'll ever be.
Union, old Union,
Fare it well with thee.

In fading glory
Soft grows bright the scene so grand.
Walls old and hoary
In true splendour stand.
See, it paints in golden
Alma mater's glorious fame;
Fame so bright and olden
Speaks old Union's name.

Soft night is creeping
O'er this scene so fair and bright;
All earth seems sleeping
In the falling night.
Is the night that's falling
Night that ne'er shall greet the day?
But in gloom appalling
Reign eternally.

No, gloom ne'er can veil
Alma mater's glorious fame,
Nor time e'er fail
To revere her name.
See, the morn is breaking,
Soft it tints the eastern sky,
See, new life is waking,
Life that ne'er shall die.

Soft is the glowing
Of the morning's gentle blush,
In beauty growing
By Aurora's brush.
See, she wreaths in glory
All the earth and sky above,
And these walls so hoary
Brighter grow in love.

'Tis the future's light
Streaming from a cloudless sky;
'Tis the morning bright
Of the day that's nigh.
Day that means to Union
Brightness more than tongue can tell.
Though grand fame she's won,
Ages shall it swell.

L. N. BROUGHTON, 1900.

THE 1901 GARNET.

The announcement of the approach of this long awaited volume no doubt causes a wave of satisfaction to sweep over the campus. The regular time of publication has invariably been in March, but this year, through various apparent reasons, the editors have thought fit to herald its forthcoming at a much later date. However, this does not in the least degree decrease the merits of the book, as many new features have been introduced, and the usual high standard has been maintained.

In considering the contents of the present Garnet, it is safe to say that only favorable criticism will be passed upon it. As in preceding years, there is much that has not changed, as in the matter of the faculty, fraternities, etc., but in the display of originality there is a marked departure from the rules set down by former Garnets. The cuts are an especial feature in this line. The 1901 board has gone to the trouble and expense of securing new and better ones to substitute the old stand-boys that have graced the pages of Garnet for the past ten years. Among the many beautiful designs, there is a full-page picture of the Undergraduate Council that demands special attention. Although the material for this picture came in at a late day, the editors in securing Austin's best efforts feel sure that it is a valuable addition.

In regard to the literary matter, the aim has been to touch on subjects dealing especially with the student in his leisure moments. College scraps, the undergraduate banquet, and the witty discourse of Eli Perkins, find a place here. And then in the matter of "grinds," the deserving alone, are taken note of; and the results truly show that the editors have not failed in their efforts to reach these "deserving" ones.

On placing this volume in the hands of friends and fellow students, the editors believe that their work will meet with approval. There have been many obstacles in the way, and no doubt the board has been slow in removing them; but however that may be, the work is accomplished, and passes into the hands of those capable of judging of its merits and demerits.

INTER-CLASS MEET.

Sophomores Victorious by a Comfortable Margin.

The spring inter-class games held Thursday afternoon on the college oval resulted in a victory for the sophomores, who scored forty points. The freshmen and juniors tied for second place with twenty-eight points each. Aside from class interests the purpose of this meet was to determine which athletes should compose the team to represent Union at the inter-collegiate meet at Geneva on Memorial Day.

In the distance runs Broughton, 1900, and Hawkes, 1902, showed up in excellent form, and can doubtless hold their own with any runner in the league. Finnegan threw the hammer very well and ought to figure in that event on Decoration Day. Griffith ran a very pretty race in the high hurdles. Captain Davis, owing to a disability, failed to compete in any events. Weed turned his ankle badly in the high hurdles and was compelled to desist for the rest of the afternoon. The field events, especially the two jumps, appear to be the weak spots among the garnet clad athletes. This weakness is due more to lack of training than of material. The summary:

100 yard dash—Won by Kline, '01; second, Wells, '03; third, Boorn, 1900. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

120 yard hurdle—Won by Griffith, '02; second, Dunning, '02; third, Weed, '01. Time, 17 4-5 seconds.

One mile run—Won by Broughton, 1900; second Garretson, '03; third, Shelley, '01. Time, 5 minutes, 5 3-5 seconds.

220 yard hurdle—Won by Griffith, '02; second, Dunning, '02; third, Wells, '03. Time, 28 4-5 seconds.

880 yards dash—Won by Hawkes, '02; second, Broughton, 1900; third, Wight, '01. Time 2 minutes, 7 3-5 seconds.

220 yard dash—Won by Kline, '01; second, Boorn, 1900; third, Hoadley, '02. Time, 24 3-5 seconds.

Two mile run—Won by Broughton, 1900; second Shelley, '01; third, Anderson, 1900. Time, 12 minutes, 57 1-5 seconds.

440 yard dash—Won by Boorn, 1900; second, Hoadley, '02; third, Hawkes, '02. Time, 53 4-5 seconds.

FIELD EVENTS.

Running high jump—Won by Tummonds, '02; second, Griffith, '02; third, Wagoner, '01. Height, 4 feet, 9 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Clark, '01; second, Weed, '03; third, Bahney, '02. Height, 8 feet, 5 inches.

Hammer throw—Won by Finnegan, '02; second, Donnan, '03; third, Clark, '03. Distance, 92 feet, 1½ inches.

Shot put—Won by Slack, '01; second, Wells, '03; third, Clark, '03, and Donnan, '03, tied. Distance, 33 feet, 3 inches.

Running broad jump—Won by Kline, '01; second, Wells, '03; third, Clark, '03. Distance, 18 feet, 6 inches.

The officials of the meet were—Starter, Captain Davis, 1900; timer, Stephen S. Reed, 1900; George E. Pike, 1900; scorers, Mackenzie, '03; Guthrie, '02; judges, D. Shaw, '02, J. Small, '02.

The score by points: 1902, 40; 1900, 28; 1903, 28; 1901, 21.

THE "CONCORDY" BOARD DINES.

A most satisfactory repast was had last Wednesday evening at Dobermann's by the upper class members of the Concordiensis Board. The banquet was the "set up" of the college treasurer, Gilbert K. Harroun and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Prof. Pollard was the guest of honor. Old Union and Mr. Harroun were liberally toasted.

NINETY-FIVE next week.

DECORATION DAY and difficulties arising from taking charge of the paper by the new management, have delayed this issue almost two days. Number 29 will be out, as usual, Wednesday morning.

THREE DEFEATS for Union teams on one day is not as poor a record on reflection as at first sight. Second place in the Geneva meet, and two trouncings by Dartmouth at Albany is, in short, the Garnet's athletic history of Memorial Day, 1900. The men put up a plucky struggle in the state intercollegiates, scoring forty-eight points to Rochester's sixty-one and Hobart's eighteen. But two men out of the fourteen failed to earn their U. The players at Albany unquestionably gave a poor exhibition of the national game, yet the strength of their opponents and the time-honored "off day" story must command some attention. The Middlebury, Rochester and Colgate games show that the men are worthy of the students' earnest support. Make the men feel we are behind them on the coming trips and no one need feel the possibility of a toboggan season's close. Lack of space prevents further accounts this week.

THE TENTH ANNIVERSARY of '90's commencement will be celebrated in June. In accordance with this paper's attempt to stimulate interest in class reunions this year, a brief account of the lives, since graduation, of the members of the youngest decennial class, is given in this issue. Much difficulty has been met in securing these records. Prof. John Ira Bennett has given the editors the major part of the information. In collaboration with Frederick E. Hawkes, '90, he has been engaged in an effort to locate all his fellow-classmates and secure, if possible, their attendance at the coming reunion. The attempt has met with but little success as yet, though it is hoped that the account in this paper, reaching as it does every '90 man's home that is known, will be of some service. Correction of any mistake that may have crept into the histories or new information will be gladly received by either member of the committee. The college hopes to greet in June every '90 man who can possibly find time to visit her.

THE 1901 GARNET BOARD, after a year of mismanagement and lack of unity and interest, announce the appearance of their volume. The query, "When is the Garnet coming out?" has justly developed into a jest, and no one ought to understand it more than the editors of that board. The appearance of the book at so late a day is unprecedented, and can only be accounted for by placing it to the failure of certain members of the board to do their share of the work. This need not be emphasised, as it is known to the students that the majority of the editors have done nothing.

This course of action is sufficient to warn future Garnet boards in the carrying on of their work. The editors ought to understand the duties devolving upon them and accomplish them assiduously. The 1901 Garnet board did nothing of the sort, and, in fact, the book grew as by a natural process. This, however, does not reflect upon the merits of the book, yet it is necessary to understand that unless there is proper management, there cannot be the success that would otherwise be expected.

A SINCERE FEELING of regret must fall upon every undergraduate when he learns of the coming departure from Union of John W. H. Pollard, to prosecute his studies in his chosen profession. To those who have known him during the past three years, who have witnessed his efforts toward the upbuilding of student athletics and have felt his kindly, cheerful sympathy, his absence will create a void which cannot soon be filled. In his first two years on the hill, Instructor Pollard, besides carrying on his regular work, coached two track teams and two victorious elevens, managed a successful minstrel show, inaugurated the interscholastic meet at Union and had entire supervision of two such contests. In this, his third year, through pursuing and creditably passing up the freshman year at the Medical Department, conducting his classroom and gymnasium work, he has again coached the football team and taken charge of another interscholastic meet. Every bit of Instructor Pollard's outside work for the college has been given gratuitously and in a true self-sacrificing, sportsmanlike spirit. Nothing but the sincerest good wishes of Union men for their coming life go with our athletic instructor and his young wife on their leave-taking from "Old Union."

OBITUARY.

81 Lansing T. Vedder, M. D., died on May 13. Dr. Vedder received his college training at Old Union and in 1881 took his degree from the Albany Medical college. His classmates were the Hon. Charles C. Duryea, M. D., and the late Dr. E. P. Van Epps. The funeral services were held from the Masonic Temple and later from the Reformed church at Niskayuna, Dr. Vedder's native village.

CHI PSI DANCE.

The members of the Chi Psi fraternity gave their annual dance last Friday evening at Yates' Boat House. A most enjoyable time was had by all present. The hall was attractively decorated with the fraternity colors, purple and gold, and the spacious balcony made a pleasant retreat after the dances.

Everybody seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion and dancing was continued until the early hours of the morning.

Among those present from out of town were: Misses McClellan, Cambridge; Payn, Leggett, Carnell, Burlingame, Golden, Albany; Rogers, Sandy Hill; Stover, Amsterdam; Maybery, Smith College. From this city were the Mrs. Brown, Strain, Schoolcraft, Thomson, Lewis, Pollard, Gregg, Kriegsman, and Misses Brown, Strain, Schoolcraft, Ramsey, Chisler, Paige, Veeder, Lewis, Case, Schuyler, Price, Horst-meyer, Kingsbury, Miller, Walker, Beattie, Kreusi, Van Deusen, Clark, Button, Furman, Fuller, Maude Horstmann, Mabel Horstmann; Professors Opdyke, Pollard and Bennett, and Messrs. Griswold, Cornell, '94; Jewett, Cornell, '99; Potter, Amherst, 1902; E. J. Berg, Eskil Berg, Slichter, Stewart, Bender, Loucks, Van Vlack, MacCulloch, Pike, Lawrence, Jones, 1900; Merriman, Parker, Wagoner, Kline, Warner, 1901; Griffith, Hawkes, 1902. In addition to these were Messrs. Rulison, Thomson, Vedder, Tremper, Brown, Cooper, and the active chapter, consisting of Potter, Rogers, Lawton, Thomson, 1900; Brown, Golden, Clements, 1901; Ostrander, Crim, Gillespie; 1902; Howe and Hoxie, 1903.
