LYMAN GRANGER

Son of Simeon and Phoebe Couch Granger
Born December 22, 1794 at Sandisfield, Mass.
Died June 18, 1839 at Utica, N. Y.
Married (1) Sept. 10, 1823, to Frances Maria, daughter of Cephas Smith and Polly Gove, of Rutland, Vt. She was born Feb. 23, 1799; died Dec. 31, 1834 at Pittsford, Vt. (2) Mrs. Elizabeth (Gibbs) Sparr, widow of Dr. Sparr of Granville, N. Y. and daughter of Dr. Leonard Gibbs of Granville.

Lyman Granger, A. M., was a graduate of Union College, in 1820, and entered at once upon the study of law at Litchfield Law School and closed it with Judge Samuel Church of Salisbury, Conn. He commenced the practice of law in company with Moses Strong, Esq., of Rutland, Vt., in 1823. He continued in practice until the foundation of the firm of Simeon Granger & Sons in the adjoining town of Pittsford until 1837 when on account of ill health, he sold out his interest in the property. He had several offices of trust, and was Representative in the General Assembly of the State, in 1826 and 1827.

He died suddenly at Utica, N. Y., while on a visit,
June 8, 1839, leaving no children.

There is a portrait of Lyman Granger & wife facing p. 258.

SON of Simeon, was born in Sandersfield, Mass., December 22, 1794. He was graduated from Union College about 1820, and at once entered upon the study of law. He commenced the study of his profession at the Litchfield Law School and closed it with Judge Samuel Church of Salisbury, Conn. He commenced practice with Moses Storey, Esq., of Rutland, Vt., in 1823. In the fall of this year he married Frances Smith of Rutland, Vt., who was born February 23, 1799. About this time--in company with his father, then living in Salisbury, Conn., and his younger brother, Chester--he purchased several small lots of land in Pittsford, and the following year he came here to reside. For a little time, he occupied the Ewing's house, now known as the Armington house. On the 30th of November, 1826, he and his brother Chester purchased of Andrew Leach the furnace property, "consisting of 160 acres of land with all the buildings standing thereon," and the sum paid was $6,000. Immediately after this purchase Lyman removed to the White cottage on the south side of the road leading from the road on which the school house now stands, to the furnace. The father and the two sons carried on the furnace business and the firm was known as "Simeon Granger & Sons," though the father had not yet removed his residence from Connecticut. The company built the white house on the north side of the road and a few rods east of the cottage already mentioned, in the spring of 1827, and Lyman afterwards occupied this. He practiced law about two years after he located in this town, but after acquiring an interest in the Furnace he relinquished professional business and devoted his whole attention to the interests of the company.

His wife Frances died December 31, 1834, and in 1836 he married Betsey Spurr.

The following year he sold his interest in the furnace property and removed to Granville, N. Y. He died suddenly at Utica, on a visit, June 18, 1839.

LYMAN GRANGER

Opened an office in this town in the spring of 1824. After pursuing the usual course of study, he was admitted to the bar in Rutland county in December, 1825, and immediately formed a co-partnership in practice with Moses Storey, Esq., then a prominent attorney in Rutland. At the expiration of two years after coming to Pittsford, he relinquished the practice of law and engaged in other pursuits.
