1. Course Leading to the Degree of A. B.—The usual Classical Course, including French and German. After Sophomore year the work is largely elective.
2. Course Leading to the Degree of B. S.—The modern languages are substituted for the ancient, and the amount of Mathematics and English studies is increased. After the Sophomore year a large list of electives is offered.
3. Course Leading to the Degree of Ph. B.—This differs from the A. B. course chiefly in the omission of Greek and the substitution therefor of additional work in modern languages and science.
4. General Course Leading to the Degree of B. E.—This course is intended to give the basis of an engineering education, including the fundamental principles of all special branches of the profession, a knowledge of both French and German, and a full course in English.
5. Sanitary Course Leading to the Degree of B. E.—This differs from course 4 in substituting special work in Sanitary Engineering for some of the General Engineering studies.
6. Electrical Course Leading to the Degree of B. E.—This differs from course 4 in substituting special work in Electricity and its applications, in place of some of the General Engineering studies. This course is offered in co-operation with the Edison General Electric Company.
7. Graduate Course in Engineering Leading to the Degree of C. E.—A course of one year offered to graduates of courses 4, 5 or 6.

There are also special courses in Analytical Chemistry, Metallurgy and Natural History. For catalogues or for special information, address

THE YALE BI-CENTENNIAL.

Impressions of It by Dr. Raymond.

President Raymond on Friday morning last gave to the students an interesting talk in connection with the great Yale bi-centennial celebration in New Haven. It was his privilege to attend the most inspiring portions of the services which he in part described as follows:

"This was one of the greatest of academic gatherings, surpassing in magnificence of decorations anything ever seen in a political campaign. In the city business was suspended and the whole city given over to the celebration, while the people lined the streets. There was not a house that did not show the celebration of a bi-centennial.

"Perhaps most interesting to me was a great campus-meeting, a sort of out-door theatrical. A stage was erected in the center of the campus with seats in front for a picked chorus of five hundred voices. Then came chairs for graduates and beyond them the raised benches began, one hundred and fifty feet from the stage.

"The night was a beautiful one and I was impressed by the good nature and good order of the crowd—even surprised, until I overheard this remark in explanation, 'One thing we learn at Yale and that is to wait our turn.'

"Eight or ten thousand must have been seated there before the curtain rose and they waited in the same good order for four hours. The gathering was enlivened with cheers, both class and college, and then the singing began. One class would start a familiar song and perhaps be asked to repeat it, again and again. Of these popular songs of the old days the audience seemed never to tire.

"The pictorial scenes were in charge of the College Dramatic Association. Those who expected but indifferent acting were agreeably disappointed, for the students were thoroughly drilled. The scenes represented the founding of the college, the transfer of the books to New Haven, Washington's visit to the college, the execution of Nathan Hale and other representations of college life long ago. And all this time the enthusiasm kept up with no disorder of any kind, nothing that offended the ear, but yet noise enough that any sophomore could desire.

"The next day was the great day of the festival, when representatives from all nations gathered in the theatre and the degrees were conferred. The gathering was notable because of the character of the guests and because of the brilliant academic gowns. Nor was there any one more resplendent than our own Professor Ashmore. The representatives of the various institutions of learning were arranged in chronological order, beginning at the stage, and any such arrangement as this always brings Union well toward the front. It is impossible for you to realize the impressiveness of the scene, as each man arose in his place to receive his degree. The names of Secretary Hay, Seth Low and Admiral Sampson were greeted with especial enthusiasm. Then President Hadley said:

"'But one name remains,' and as President Rossvelt stepped forward it was many minutes before he was allowed to speak. In his characteristic way he began, 'I never yet engaged in any work for the betterment of mankind but there was a Yale man at my side.' Now if anything was calculated to bring the enthusiasm to a climax it was those words."

In closing his remarks Dr. Raymond said: "The part that impressed me most was not the enthusiasm for Yale, though that in itself was great enough, but the enthusiasm for America. And the spontaneous and wonderful applause that the presence of our great statesmen seemed to arouse was very noticeable. It was to the representatives of the nation that the audience turned their plaudits again and again. Thus we see that in the American citizen enthusiasm for his country transcends all else."

DR. TRUAX ON THE KING ALFRED CELEBRATION.

In connection with the day's work in English literature Dr. Truax took occasion to call the attention of his classes, October 28, to the significance of the King Alfred celebration and laid special stress upon the fact that King Alfred was remembered with pride and gratitude because his work had been an unselfish one, directed toward the moral and intellectual as well as to the material progress of his England, and because the agencies he used—the school and literature—and the truths he taught are vital still.

The following article which appeared in "The Union" gives the tenor of his address:

"The English celebration was held in September in the city of Winchester the ancient capital of England where Alfred died and was buried in October, 901. A statue by Thornycroft was unveiled and many important persons participated in the exercises, among them Lord Roseberry, Frederic Harrison, Sir Henry Irving, Charles Francis Adams.

"The American celebration is under the auspices of the Society of American Authors. It began yesterday with a sermon at St. Paul's, New York and will continue today with an exhibition at the Lenox Library of Alfredian literature, and with addresses at educational institutions generally, and will end with a banquet in New York city this evening.

"Alfred is a commanding figure in English history as a warrior, a legislator, a ruler, a patron and maker of literature, and an example of Christian virtues. The heir of a kingdom which had been wrested from its lawful possessor by the Danes, he won it back by able generalship and personal bravery and established it so firmly that in his lifetime the throne of Wessex became the throne of England. The England that had once furnished a superintendent of education to Charlemagne was sunk now in illiteracy. Alfred inaugurated a revival of learning, devoting himself to the task with a perfect passion of enthusiasm. He learned Latin when he had reached middle-age, roused the clergy from their torpor, compelled the nobility to put their sons to school, by precepts and example declared the importance of the intellectual and the moral. It meant much for England that royalty wielded the pen as well as the sword. What was worth a king's doing was regarded as worthy of a subject's attention. It is Alfred's interest in education and literature that has revealed to us the human quality in him that wins our affectionate regard. He gathered books and learned men about himself and drew wisdom from them with the eagerness and the humility of a child. He translated into Anglo-Saxon the learning that was hidden in the language of scholarship—the Latin—and made it accessible to all of his race, with a wise and noble philanthropy.

"In the process he simplified it with evident desire to popularize it to the utmost possible extent. The history of the Anglo-Saxon church, involving the story of the first native English poet, the pastoral letter of Pope Gregory, the history of the world by the Spaniard Orosius, and the philosophy of the Roman Senator Boethius, he turned from unfamiliar Latin into the simplest of old English. There is good ground for thinking that he converted the simple Easter annals of the monks into the further and more dignified chronicles which are the basis of English national history.

"How lofty was the plane of his thought may be gathered from some of his own sentences written more than a thousand years ago:

" 'True friends are of all the goods in this world the most precious.'

" 'Power is never a good unless he be good who has it.'

" 'A man will not be the better because he had a well born father if he himself is naught. The only thing which if good in noble descent is this—that it makes men ashamed to be worse than their elders and strive to do better than they.'

"One of the most interesting of English historical relics, testifying both to the existence of Alfred and to the state of artistic workmanship of his time is known as 'King Alfred's Jewel.' It was found in his old hiding place Athelney, and is kept very securely in the new quarters of the Ashmolean Museum—the Taylor buildings—in Oxford. It is so inconspicuously placed that I have known visitors to miss it altogether, and after making the entire circuit of the rooms in search for it, I had to apply to the custodian for special directions before I found it myself. It is in shape like a flattened pear or fig about the size of an old fashioned brooch. It is of gold and enamel work very elaborately wrought. On one of the flat faces is the likeness of the upper portion of a human figure with hands upon its breast, on the other flat surface is an arabesque of flowers, and the neck or stem of the jewel is shaped like an animal's head, about the rim runs the inscription 'Alfred Mec Het Gewyrca'—a legend practically equivalent to 'Made for Alfred'—but the literal translation makes the jewel a thing of life, addressing the observer, and saying, 'Alfred gave command to make me.'"

UNION COLLEGE NIGHT AT THE UNIVERSITY CLUB.

Saturday night, October 26, was Union College night at the University Club of Schenectady. Invitations had been extended to all the Union alumni of Schenectady and a large number responded to the invitation. A very enjoyable evening was spent and those who were not already members were so favorably impressed that ten of them signed the application blanks for membership.

College songs were sung by a delegation composed of Grout, Crim, Crain and Hawks, '02; Howe, '03; Craig, Palmer and Drees, '04; and Blake, '05.

Among those present were President Raymond and Professors Wells, Truax, Hale, Jones and Towne, Alexander J. Thomson, '48, James W. Veeder, '94, Dr. J. L. Schoolcraft, '75, E. E. Kriegsman, '76, H. J. Glen, '81, Lee W. Case, '82, F. W. McClellan, '83, W. W. Wemple, '86, A. H. Pepper, '87, J. C. Van Voast, '87, L. M. King, '88, Rev. Harry Dean, '90, Alvah Fairlee, '93, R. F. Gilmore, '94, Homer Strong, '96, J. C. Cooper, '97, Carl Hammer, '98, and H. P. Dunham, 1900.

ALBANY LAW SCHOOL.

In the political contests which are being waged in this and adjacent counties, graduates of the Albany Law School are playing an unusually prominent part. The President of the Trustees, General Amasa J. Parker, is the democratic candidate for Mayor of Albany.

General Parker is a graduate of Union, class of 1863, and of the Law school, class of 1864. His devotion to his Alma Mater is well known, and all loyal alumni of the school, irrespective of political faith, wish him good luck at election.

Seymour Van Santvoord, Vice-President of the Board of Trustees, is running for Mayor of Troy on the democratic ticket, while George H. Fitts, '74, is a candidate for re-election as Surrogate of Albany County on the republican ticket.

Besides this, Mark Cohn, '73, is running for County Judge, Frederick W. Cameron, '82, for Surrogate, and Matthias J. Severence, Jr., '89, for City Court Judge.

Although the Law School does not perhaps furnish as many men as might be to the 'varsity eleven, the number of local coaches turned out rather makes up for this deficiency. Fenton, 1902, is in charge of the Ridgefield branch of the Y. M. C. A., Hickok, 1902, is coaching the Albany High School eleven, while Merriman, 1903, and Parr, 1903, are looking out for the Albany Academy team. There is plenty of baseball material in the school, particularly among the juniors, and the management may expect to hear from them in the spring.

One of the books that is destined to take first rank among legal publications is "Eaton on Equity," by the late James W. Eaton, of the Law Faculty. This work was completed just prior to Mr. Eaton's death, and is said to be one of the most comprehensive treatises on the subject ever published.

UNION, 18 ; R. P. I., 0.

The Garnet Again Successful in Her Contest With the Institute.

R. P. I. was defeated by the Union eleven on October 26 by the score of 18 to 0 in a listless game on the campus. The game throughout was devoid of any brilliant playing on either side. Union played a poorer game on Saturday than she has played this season, which was on account of her over-confidence. R. P. I. put up a plucky game, but at no time did she have a chance of scoring. Fumbling was frequent on both sides. The first touchdown was made in three minutes of play. The second touchdown was made in the latter part of the first half. The third touchdown was made in the first part of the second half. Smith and Mayer played a strong game, being the best ground gainers for the Institute men. Smith made some excellent tackles. Bryan put up the strongest game for Union. Paige, Gulnac and King made the most gains for Union. Finegan made a pretty run of 25 yards, bringing the ball close to the R. P. I. goal line, and soon after Paige was sent over for the second touchdown.

Union won the toss-up, and chose to defend the south goal. Mayer kicked off to Cronkhite on Union's 20-yard line, who advanced the ball 15 yards before downed. By end runs and line bucks Union advanced the ball to R. P. I.'s three-yard line, when King was sent over for a touchdown. Paige kicked a clean goal. Mayer kicked off to Cronkhite on Union's 10-yard line, who advanced the ball twenty yards before downed. Union then advanced the ball steadily for a touchdown, when she fumbled the ball on R. P. I.'s 35-yard line. Mayer fell on the ball and ran ten yards before tackled. Then R. P. I. advanced the ball mainly by end runs to Union's 15-yard line, where Union held them for downs. Union advanced the ball by line bucks and end runs to R. P. I.'s five-yard line, where Paige was given the ball and by a line buck brought it over the line for a touchdown. Paige kicked goal. Mayer kicked off to Gulnac, who advanced the leather twenty yards before downed. After a few gains Paige punted to R. P. I.'s 35-yard line. Ferguson caught the ball and advanced it five yards before tackled by Griswold, when time was called. Score at the end of the first half—Union, 12 ; R. P. I., 0.

Paige kicked off to Mayer on R. P. I.'s 10-yard line, who advanced the ball ten yards before downed by Bryan. Smith fumbled the ball on R. P. I.'s 15-yard line. Bryan fell on the ball and advanced it six yards before downed by Pitz. King made a gain of four yards and Paige two yard through the line. King was then pushed over for a touchdown. Paige kick goal. Mayer kicked off to Paige on Union's 10 yard line, who brought the ball back ten yards before tackled. Union advanced the ball to its 45-yard line. Paige punted to Greenfield, who was tackled in his tracks by Gulnac. Bryan tackled Mayer for a loss of eight yards. Bonnie was also tackled by Bryan for a loss, and Greenfield tried to punt but King blocked the punt for a loss for R. P. I. of twenty yards. Ferguson fell on the ball. Greenfield then punted to Cronkhite. R. P. I. obtained the ball on a fumble. The Institute men could make no gains and Greenfield punted to Union's 40-yard line. King was twice tackled for a loss ; Paige punted to R. P. I.'s 55-yard line. R. P. I. advanced the ball twenty-five yards, when time was called. Score at end of second half—Union, 18 ; R. P. I., 0.

THE FALL CONCERT.

The work of the musical clubs is progressing in a very satisfactory manner. The rehearsals are well attended and the competition runs high. This may be attributed to either of two reasons. In the first place the competitors for the clubs are so numerous that each man must do his very best in order to gain a position on the clubs. Then, secondly, a deposit of five dollars has been required of all candidates. For each absence a fine of twenty-five cents is imposed.

The annual fall concert will take place early in December and if training and diligent practice counts for anything this will be the musical event of the term.

The members of the association are requested to arrange with the manager, W. S. Yates, '02, concerning the deposit of $5.00 per member that was voted at the first meeting of the year. All deposits must be made before Saturday, November 2nd. The following men are the most promising candidates for the glee club and in all probability will compose the glee club this year:

First tenors—Crim, Grout, Harris, Hager.

Second tenors—Craig, Howe, Bishop, Blake.

First basses—Crain, Heath, Palmer, M. King.

Second basses—Slack, Hawkes, Hinman, Molineaux.

A selection from the first list was in several instances extremely difficult to make owing to the earnestness and ability of most of the candidates, and many of the men were chosen for their part in preference to others not for any marked superiority of voice but for the reason that they were also promising candidates for the instrumental clubs, and it is the wish of the management, in so far as it is possible, to make the men "double up," thus cutting down the expense of an extra man.

All the candidates both successful and unsuccessful have shown a marked improvement over men of former year in the promptness, regularity and earnestness of their work.

Harvard has an entering class of 532 the largest in its history.

Chas. Burrows, Printer, 414 State Street, Schenectady, N. Y.

It is to be regretted that the Syracuse management saw fit to cancel the game with Union on the campus for Saturday. The cause for such action was a misunderstanding on the part of Syracuse of the place at which the game was to be played. The contest, had it come off, would no doubt have proved to be an interesting one. The notice was received by Manager Woolworth at such a late hour that it was impossible for him to arrange for another for that date.

THE cheering at the R. P. I. game last Saturday was not what it might have been. There is no reason why there should not be at every game on the campus good, loud, strong, systematic cheering. It is hoped that there will be such at the Vermont game on Tuesday. The following is taken from the Williams Weekly and deserves the careful attention of every man in college:

"The matter of cheering at games and athletic meets is far more important than the attention given it would seem to imply. The standard of the student body is often judged by its conduct at athletic contests, so that if the cheering is not just what it should be the impression gained by an outsider is not apt to be a good one. Moreover this impression, though it may be false, is likely to be lasting. We are glad to note, therefore, that Williams is maintaining her reputation for gentlemanliness at games. The cheering here can easily be made sufficient for all purposes and still remain within the limits of courteous conduct."

THE Concordiensis hereby announces the opening for competition for positions on the editorial board as follows: from the class of 1905 six men will be appointed as reporters, to serve during their sophomore year; and from the class of 1904 there will be four appointments as associate editors to hold office during their junior year. Competition will begin at once and the appointments, which will be made in May, 1902, will, in every case, be made on a basis of work submitted. The attention of juniors is called to the fact that the board would like to see more men, even at this late day, enter the competition from the class of 1903 for associate editors. The attention of sophomores, in particular, is called to the fact that any member of the class may try for a position as associate editor. The mere fact that a man has "made" the paper during his freshman year is in itself no reason why he should be retained; and the four sophomores whose work, as regards quality and quantity, is most satisfactory will receive the appointments for next year. All students who intend to take up journalism as a profession or who are in any way interested in literary work, should avail themselves of this opportunity. For the information of those contemplating trying, the editor-in-chief will state that all copy must be in his hands before Monday noon, in order to be of use for that week's issue. Those desiring to compete for any of the above positions are requested to register their names with the editor-in-chief as soon as possible.

COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

Twenty-first Session Was Begun Under Decidedly Favorable Auspices.

The twenty-first session of the Albany College of Pharmacy was opened auspiciously with an introductory lecture by Dr. Willis G. Tucker. In his remarks Dr. Tucker alluded to the rapid growth of the college, reviewed its history during the past two decades and spoke of the excellent work which has been done by many of its graduates. He stated that though costly equipment is advantageous it is not necessarily essential, inasmuch as much of the work was done by lectures and recitations. Concluding he gave the students the following advice as regards the proper division of time that should be made by a student:

"Lay out your time systematically, and while you allot a certain proportion of it to rest and recreation, see to it that the best of your waking hours are profitably spent. A systematic division of your time, each hour having its appointed task, is indispensable if you wish to accomplish much. Pleasure should not be allowed to interfere with these self-appointed tasks. Be very sure that in such a profession as you have chosen, precision is of the utmost importance."

The class, which numbers nearly eighty students, is as follows: Samuel Armstrong, Pine Bush; Frank Clayton Barrows, Canton; Lawrence Henry Burke, Oneonta; Gerard William Clare, Utica; Patrick Joseph Donovan, Albany; Arthur James Doran, Valley Falls; Stephen Ernest Dorn, Johnstown; George Henry Dupont, Plattsburg; James Edward Farley, Matteawan; William John Friday, Schenectady; Edward Augustin Gillians, Amsterdam; Harry Benjamin Greenman, Jr., Cortland; Fred Harmon, Adams, Mass.; Walter William Janser, Albany; Francis A. Kennan, Albany; Thomas Francis Kenna, Troy; John Jacob Knauf, Albany; James Richard Langton, Troy; George Gorman Lenney, Potsdam; John Alexander Livingston, Hoosick Falls; Andrew William McLoughlin, Albany; John Edward McNany, Port Henry; John James

GREEK LETTER FRATERNITIES.

The following clipping is taken from the Cornell Daily Sun and will be of interest to all college men:

"A law has just passed both branches of the Arkansas legislature depriving any member of a Greek letter fraternity of the right to take any honors in the University of Arkansas. This the governor will doubtless sign.

"In connection with the report of such action, it is interesting to note the attitude of President Schurman toward fraternities. He said: 'College fraternities at Cornell have become one of the strongest powers for good which the institution at present possesses. They contribute more to building up manhood and developing the honesty, probity, chivalry, and also the intellectual facilities of the students than any course of study. I have thus come to count a great deal on the fraternities in the administration of the college, and in the moulding of its life and thought.

"There are not too many fraternities at Cornell. There should be a goodly number in any such institution to stimulate rivalry and emulation. Fraternities have, therefore, come to be essential to our college life as is exercise to our physical life.'"—Cornell Daily Sun.

The average annual expenditure of the class of 1900 at Princeton was $700. Thirty-one men worked their way through college entirely, and thirty more in part. The average age at graduation was 22½ years.

CORNELL ABOLISHES RUSHES.

At a special meeting of the undergraduates of Cornell held recently to consider the subject of underclass rushes the following resolutions were adopted:

Inasmuch as the so-called practice of hazing has in the past been attended with serious consequences and has proved derogatory to the best interests of our beloved Alma Mater, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this meeting as a whole, and of each class here represented separately, that in the future, all petty and indiscriminate rushing shall be discontinued and abolished; that henceforth each and every class and the entire student body individually, shall discountenance and suppress such practices. And further be it

RESOLVED, That only one annual underclass rush shall be held; that it shall take place on the Armory Green on Hollowe'en night; that it shall be an organized rush supervised and regulated by a committee of upperclassmen; and further that this custom shall be adopted as a precedent to be followed by all succeeding classes; and furthermore be it

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be printed in the University papers in the fall of each year.

JUNIORS, 11; FRESHMEN, 6.

The first of the series of class football games was played last Thursday afternoon between the juniors and freshmen, which resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 11 to 6. There was a good deal of interest displayed in the game as was evinced by the large number of students who occupied the side lines. The game was loose, both sides fumbling repeatedly. The juniors had a much stronger team than the freshmen, holding the freshmen repeatedly for downs.

The freshmen kicked off to the juniors' fifteen-yard line. The juniors advanced the ball to the freshmen's five-yard line, when Gould was sent over for a touchdown. The freshman kicked off to the juniors who advanced the ball to the center of the field, where the freshmen obtained the ball on a fumble. The freshmen were forced to punt. The punt was blocked, Becker picked up the ball and ran down the field for a touchdown. The juniors kicked off to the freshmen's twenty-five yard line. The freshmen advanced the ball five yards when they were held for downs. The juniors advanced the ball five yards when time was called.

In the second half the juniors kicked off to the freshmen's twenty-yard line, where the juniors obtained the ball on downs. The ball was advanced to the freshmen's five-yard line, where the juniors lost the ball on a fumble. The freshmen advanced the ball five yards when the juniors obtained the ball on a fumble. Mulvaney then made a plunge through the line for a touchdown. The freshmen kicked off to the juniors who advanced the ball twenty-five yards when they lost the ball on a fumble. The freshmen advanced the ball twenty yards where the juniors obtained the ball on a fumble when time was called.

The line-up:

| 1903.             | Positions.          | 1905.     |

THE ALUMNI COLUMN.

Interesting News About Union Graduates.

[Every alumnus and undergraduate of Union is invited to send to the Alumni Editor items of interest for insertion in this department. News of a personal nature, about any alumnus, will be gladly received and printed.]

'46.—John M. Carroll, a prominent lawyer at Johnstown, N. Y., died recently. Mr. Carroll at one time represented his district in congress, and was a member of  $\Phi B K$ .

'57.—John A. DeRemer was elected president of the national council of the Phi Beta Kappa society at its seventh triennial session in Saratoga in September last.

'63.—General Amasa J. Parker has been nominated for mayor of Albany by the city democratic convention.

'78.—Seymour Van Santvoord has completed for publication a book entitled "The House of Cæsar and the Imperial Disease," upon which he has been engaged in the intervals of business during the last three years. It is a tragic narrative of the Cæsars, with mosaic biographies of the one hundred emperors who ruled the Roman world during the five centuries from Julius Cæsar to the final downfall of the Western Empire. The book will consist of one handsomely bound volume of 600 pages, including more than 100 illustrations in the best half-tone process from photographs of rare busts in the Louvre, the British Museum and the various Italian collections. Many of the subjects had never before faced a camera, and in these instances photographs were obtained only after great trouble and at considerable expense. The manuscript is now in the hands of the printer, and the book will be issued in November by the Merrymount Press of Boston.

'98.—Rev. Charles H. Mattison, who recently graduated from the Auburn Theological Seminary, has been appointed a missionary of the Presbyterian church to serve in the northwest province of India. He will leave New York soon by steamer, spend some time in Europe and reach India by way of the Suez canal.

'00.—Erskine C. Rogers has been elected president of his class at the Law School.

'03.—A. A. Lee, formerly of 1903, is connected with a prominent business house in Denver, Col.

INTER-COLLEGE NOTES.

Hamilton's freshman class numbers sixty-two.

Vermont University is building a gymnasium to cost $30,000.

Columbia, in all departments, has gained 243 students this year.

John H. Hewitt, Yale '59, is temporary president of Williams.

During the past year Columbia has received in gifts over $350,000.

Yale expended $8,000 during the past summer in refitting her gymnasium.

The registration of students at Harvard in the various departments numbers 4,043.

Former President Grover Cleveland has been elected a trustee of Princeton University.

Coach Stagg of the university of Chicago has adopted the plan of numbering the football players.

Dartmouth College recently celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the graduation of Daniel Webster.

Twenty-five Pennsylvania students worked their way to Europe on cattleships, last July, to see their crew row at Henley.

A Student Union has been organized at Harvard, with a membership of 2,500. Its object is social intercourse and recreation.

The oratorical contest for the Founders medal at Vanderbilt University was won by a Chinaman. His subject was, "The Miracle of the Twentieth Century,"—the regeneration of China.

Instead of the cane rush as the annual contest between the two lower classes, Rutgers has adopted the rope rush. A number of strands of rope are distributed among the contestants and at a given signal attempts are made to tie each other. The class tying the greatest number before time is called wins.
