He was a man of good mind and excellent attainments as a theologian. His views of the doctrines of grace were remarkably clear; and his convictions of their truth decided. He had the experimental knowledge of their truth, and his faith never wavered. He lived near to God. His conversations during his long and severe illness were edifying and delightful. His judgment was sound. He was a good counselor.

Adelpic Catalogue 1830

THE INTELLIGENCER-LEADER of June 20, 1941 contains an article written by W. H. S. Demare t (Uni n 1911 Hon.). This article, "The Men Who Built Hope", mentions the names of Dr. James Romeyn (son of J. V. C. Romeyn), Dr. Thomas DeWitt, (Union, 1808), and Dr. John Garretson (Uni n 1823). These men were members of a committee who were to explore and promote the proposal of unity of the Dutch church with the Classis of Holland. And it was out of this investigation that Hope College had its foundation.
