THE NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

GENEROUS GIFT OF A LOYAL ALUMNUS.

The Plans in Full, Now Published for the First Time.

37245
As was announced by President Raymond at commencement, Union is to have a Y. M. C. A. building, the gift of an alumnus, whose name at his own request is withheld for the present. The plans have not been fully decided upon, but we are able to present in this number of The Concordiensis a handsome cut of the building and diagrams of the different floors, according to plans drawn by A. W. Fuller, architect, and which will doubtless be adopted without any radical changes. It is expected that work will be commenced within a short time and be well under way this fall.

The new building will occupy a site on the campus between South college and Professor Hoffman's residence. It will be constructed of pressed brick of a greyish color, with marble trimmings, and will consist of two stories with a basement and an attic, both of which can be finished, if at any time desired. The exterior will be finished and attractive from every point of view, and there will be east and west entrances. The building when completed will be an imposing structure, and not out of harmony with the other buildings on the campus.

The basement will contain boiler and coal room, toilet room, and possibly a kitchen. The ground floor will contain, as shown in the diagram, a large reception hall in the middle, on one side of which will be a parlor with a large alcove, the latter to be used as a trophy room. On the west front will be a porch with a veranda on each side, over which will be a balcony. On the east front will be an entrance into a second vestibule, on one side of which will be a commodious hat and coat room (or committee room) and on the other side the stairs to basement and also to the second story. On the south side of the building will be a reading room with an alcove for writing purposes.

The second story has a reception hall similar to that on the first floor. Over the parlor is a meeting room connected with the reception hall by large sliding doors, making in effect one large auditorium for general meetings. Over the reading room will be an office which, it is hoped, will be the future headquarters of The Concordiensis; also a room for the general secretary, who will reside in the building. Connected with the secretary's office is a bath and toilet room.

There will be open fire places in each story. The building will be heated through by steam and lighted by either gas or electricity.

It will be seen that ample provision has been made to meet the wants of the whole body of students, not only in reference to their religious life, but also to their social enjoyment, presenting at attractive place where all the varied interests connected with the college can meet on equal and friendly terms and demonstrate that heart's good fellowship is not inconsistent with a high moral standard.

THE SOUTH COLLEGE PROJECT.

Class of '99 Working Hard for a Modern Dormitory.

The class of '99 have undertaken to leave behind them as a memorial of their love for their alma mater, a dormitory in every respect modern yet surrounded by ancient traditions. With this aim in view, of giving Union a dormitory equal to the best in the country, a committee was appointed and plans have been formed to remodel South college.

It is planned to tear out all the old woodwork and floors and leave nothing but the old walls standing. Then the interior will be remodelled and made up-to-date in every respect. A cellar seven feet high will be constructed for steam-heater apparatus, bicycle rooms, coal bins, trunk and general storage rooms.

The floor in each room and in each hall and the plaster as well will be torn off and hardwood floors will be laid throughout and the walls will be re-plastered. The replacing of the present wooden stairways with iron ones will leave room for a bathroom in the rear of each section on each floor, giving one bathroom for every four men. The window frames will be changed, one large pane being used in place of the four small ones. Electric lights and steam heat will be put in each room and paper or paint on all the walls.

The external parts of the building will be put in first class shape but the appearance will in no wise be changed. The window sills and jambs will remain the same, thereby preserving the names carved on them and at the same time helping to keep alive the sentiment attached to the old building. New doors of modern pattern will be hung, the walls and ceilings, after being re-plastered, will receive three coats of paint, and all hall, vestibule and bath room floors will be tiled. A picture rail and suitable mouldings will be put in each room, and wherever the plumbing is exposed the pipes will be nickel-plated.

The board of trustees, at their meeting in June, passed resolutions gratefully accepting the offer of the class of '99 and expressed their high appreciation of its generous and loyal feeling. Each suite of rooms can be rented for at least $20 a term or $60 a year to each occupant. As there are 22 contemplated suites, this will mean a total income to the college of at least $2840 per year. This sum assures a considerable net income to the college after paying for heat, light and care of rooms.

There can be no better investment for the alumni than the construction of habitable dormitories, for the better the dormitories, the better will be the class of students almost regardless of the cost or standard of education.

The committee of the class of '99 have not been idle during the summer months and have made headway already. A neat booklet has been printed giving information in regard to their plans and containing a cut of the plan of each floor as it will appear when remodelled. These booklets are being sent to the alumni with a printed slip to be filled in with the amount each is willing to give and some have already responded.

In the words of this booklet: "If every alumnus will give as much as he deems he can afford to a project of this kind, and will give that large or little amount with a free hand and willing heart, the members of the class of '99 of Union college will consider that they have done one duty at least toward their alma mater in calling the attention of the alumni to one of the crying needs of the institution which we all love and cherish."

The committee consists of the following men: James N. Vander Veer, chairman; F. R. Champion, secretary; E. W. Strong, W. F. H. Breeze, W. B. Davis, M. M. Price, F. H. Weston, Jr., A. B. Lawrence, J. Mark, LeRoy T. Bradford, F. H. Fisk, Jr., D. W. Noel, E. LeC. Hegeman, B. E. Huggins, F. Schmitter and Prof. Opdyke.

Complete plans of the dormitory as remodelled appear on another page.

WELCOME TO 1903.

Another Class Enters the Portals of Old Union.

One of the most pleasant duties that falls to the lot of the upper classmen is to welcome the incoming class. For weeks before the "frosh" arrive, speculation as to the size and quality of the class is entertained. This year the highest hopes have been gratified for the class of 1903 is the largest entering class since '99; and as far as athletic material is concerned all indications point to a large supply of freshman "brawn and muscle."

Dr. Raymond, in his annual address to the entering class, spoke of the many sides of college life and the advantages that come to a man who interests himself in all branches; and it is sincerely to be hoped that this advice will be appreciated and followed out by the freshmen.

THE Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.

On Friday evening, from eight to ten, the college Y. M. C. A. held its annual fall reception at President Raymond's house. Among the guests who were received by Dr. and Mrs. Raymond were a majority of the faculty, including the three new tutors, Messrs. Bushnell, March and Duncan. The class of 1903, for whom the reception was in a large part held, was largely represented, and besides these were a great many of the other undergraduates. College songs were sung during the evening, and refreshments were served in the dining room. The reception furnished a delightful opportunity to the class of 1903 for becoming acquainted with the members of the faculty and the students, and it was enjoyed by all present.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON'S SERVICES.

Mr. Robert E. Speer Delivers a Powerful Address.

A large audience gathered in the chapel on Sunday afternoon and had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Foreign Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, and prominently identified with the student volunteer movement. Mr. Speer is a graduate of Princeton and while there distinguished himself in athletics, and in scholarship he was the second highest man ever graduated from the university, Aaron Burr being the first. Mr. Speer is a young man, but has travelled nearly all over the world in the past few years, and this, combined with his natural ability, makes him a speaker well worth hearing.

He chose for his theme lying and truth telling—a subject well suited to these, the opening weeks of another college year. There is, he said, an unborn hatred of a lie which shows itself in early childhood even among the heathen. By a lie is not meant merely the act of telling a falsehood. A man's whole life may be one lie. A lie is never justifiable for God and the truth are so closely linked together that it is impossible to serve one and not the other. We owe a debt to our past not to lie. Each one's reputation is at stake as is also that of his family. We owe it to our present not to lie, and we owe it to ourselves. We owe it to the world and we owe it to Christ.

"Be true to Christ," he said, "for Christ set an example for everyone, and he who does not try to follow in His ways is not true to Him. There is a God within every man, who tells what is right; and were a man to live according to his conscience he would be true to the past, the present, himself, the world and Christ."

"Be true, be true, be true, Hate lies, hate lies, hate lies."

Harold S. Fiske, 1901, has passed all of his examinations for West Point and is now at the academy.

SUMMER HAUNTS OF THE FACULTY.

Nearly all the students and faculty have by this time returned and all are ready for work after vacations spent in various ways and a variety of places. Below is published a list of the different localities where the several members of the faculty enjoyed the summer.

Dr. Raymond made his headquarters at home but visited a great many neighboring towns and cities in the interest of the college.

Dr. Whitehorne has for several years remained in this city and this summer has been no exception to his custom.

Dr. Wells, too, in accordance with his custom, has been spending his summer at the University Club House, Lake Placid, where a number of college professors and other literary men meet and associate for the summer.

Dr. Perkins enjoyed a few weeks in the North woods but the greater part of the summer he spent in "Old Dorp."

Prof. Ashmore spent the summer in Europe. Most of his time he was at the Bodleian Library at Oxford, the British Museum at London, and the National Library at Paris. He was especially concerned with the University Extension movement at Oxford.

Dr. Truax also spent his vacation in Europe and is now on his way home to resume his duties at this college.

Profs. Wright, Hoffman, Ripton and Landreth remained in the city.

Dr. Stoller spent part of his summer with a former instructor at Union, George V. Edwards, at River's Head, Long Island.

Prof. Hale, as usual, spent his summer at his father's home on Long Island.

Profs. Pepper and Walker remained in the city.

Inst. Pollard spent his summer in Kennebunkport, Maine.

The other members of the faculty are either out of town or could not be seen in time for this issue.

L. M. Bloomingdale, 1902, took a trip through Yellowstone Park last summer.

Sept. 30th. Everyone be out on the field early and do his share of cheering.

STUDENTS, read carefully our advertisements and then patronize the firms who are helping to support this paper. They are all leaders in their lines.

IN THIS issue of The Concordiensis have been emphasized the many material improvements to the college. To do this it has been necessary to hold over much matter of interest, and the next number of the paper will be devoted principally to alumni news.

A copy of this number of The Concordiensis has been sent to each member of the faculty, to all of last year's subscribers, and to every freshman.
Unless notified to the contrary the business manager will enter all the above names as regular subscribers for the coming year. In future, The Concordiensis will be issued every Wednesday, instead of on Friday as for some time past. This,
the first number, is delayed owing to the late hour at which the copy for several advertisements was received.

IT IS with pleasure that The Concordiensis is able to present in this issue the interior plans of the new Y. M. C. A. building, and also plans for the renovation of the South college dormitory. We also send as a supplement to this issue a half tone engraving of the Y. M. C. A. hall. These are all silent proofs that Old Union has awakened from her lethargy, and that her alumni have now a renewed interest and confidence in the old institution.
The new Y. M. C. A. hall means not only a handsome addition to our campus and a common meeting ground for all the students—a centre of undergraduate life heretofore lacking—but it means more. Now that one alumnus has created a precedent others should follow his generous example.
The the Hall of Languages, the Science Building, and the new Gymnasium will not be idle dreams,
but stern realities.

THE new board of editors made its apologies in the commencement number of the paper, so that we are able to spare our readers at this time. Like every other board, we have made many plans for the year's work, but as for the realization of these ideals we have no promises to make. If the publication has not been what it might have, this state of affairs is partly, at least, due to the lack of support given. Now at the opening of another college year we ask for the hearty coöperation of students, faculty and alumni. To the latter in particular we appeal at this time. Of the three thousand alumni living, less than ten per cent. are readers of The Concordiensis. This condition of affairs should not be. The publication in its new form will endeavor to be representative of undergraduate life at Union, and no alumnus can afford to be without it. We want you to subscribe, not out of a sense of duty, but because the investment will be a paying one. A blue pencil mark at the margin of this editorial indicates that you are not now a subscriber and that we would be glad to add your name to our mailing list.

THE pleasure of seeing new faces and grasping new hands at Old Union makes the heart of every student beat more rapidly. It is a treat to know that what our alma mater has been to us, will not fail to make the same indelible impression on the minds of our new comers. It is many years since Union had the same pleasing look, the same assurance in the success of present efforts, and the same bright outlook for the future. A new era has sprung up in the history of the old college, and has brought with it all the freshness of youth. It is very encouraging to note the freedom and ease which the members of 1903 have taken on their first approach at the blue gate. The sacred memories that surround the institution have not failed to raise the spirits of these strangers, and it is our earnest hope that 1903 will do much toward upholding a high standing in all lines of college work.

Besides the deep satisfaction of intellectual advancement, the college offers other branches of work. The athletic side must not be neglected, as the well developed muscle is as potent a factor as the cultured brain in the reputation of a college. Let 1903 come to the front and prove their worth in this all important branch, and so win renown for their alma mater.

The literary side is another which has a call upon the students, and it is one which, we hope, will receive more attention in the coming year than it has in the past. Then there is the college from the religious standpoint, which no man can afford to neglect. We are here for advancement intellectually, morally and physically, and he who fails to emphasize any one of these is not getting the full worth of his college course.

You who are entering upon your college career must realize that the four years ahead will be just what you choose to make them. In proportion as you enter into the several branches of student enterprise, just to that degree will college return the benefits which it offers. In the name of the students, The Concordiensis bids you a hearty welcome and expresses hope that your connection with Union may be alike a benefit to yourselves and an honor to the dear old institution we love so well.

THE CANE RUSH.

Freshmen Win by a Narrow Margin.

The campus was the scene Monday afternoon of one of the liveliest encounters that have yet taken place. The usual preparations of salt and tomatoes were carried out during the day, and despite the disagreeable weather everything pointed to a good contest. Both classes turned out the majority of their members, but in point of numbers the freshmen had the advantage, the ratio being about three to two in their favor.

The preliminary meetings were held at two o'clock—the sophomores assembling in the chapel, and the freshmen in the North college. At three o'clock the sophs came forth with a shout and took a position on the campus to await the frosh. Presently the new class-yell rang across the field, the opponents met and the battle was on. For ten minutes the air was alive with fruit and salt, until Referee Fenton threw the greased "bone of contention" into the midst of the struggling mass. Then the argument became a heated one, which was strongly contested on both sides. At the call of time, the number of hands were counted and the referee proclaimed the freshmen victors by a score of ten to nine.

A shout of joy from the frosh followed the announcement, and after futile efforts on their part to form a parade, and the affair became a thing of the past.

FOOTBALL PROSPECTS.

The Schedule of Games For the Season.

At the beginning of the football season the prospects for a good team, while not of the brightest, are still of a much more encouraging nature than they were at the same time last year. The eleven has lost every man behind the line but on the contrary has five veterans in the line. Several disappointments have met the management thus far. Mallery, Gulnac and Keogh, our crack trio of backs, have all left college, while Willis will be unable to enter his class until the latter part of October. A good amount of promising material in the new class, however, coupled with some developed last fall, it is hoped will fill the vacant positions in a satisfactory manner. Captain Fenton has had a large number of candidates out on the gridiron throughout the week and Coach Pollard and he have been working hard to round them out in good shape. Among the more prominent candidates the following may be mentioned: Fenton, Finnegan, Carver, Thebo, Dunning, Shaw, Paige, Slack, Best, Weed, Woolworth, Bahler, Hawkes, Anderson, Acheson, Griffith, Welles, 1903; Dickinson, 1903; Hoxie, 1903; Robinson, 1900; Peck, 1903; Griswold, 1903; Donnan, 1903; and Parker, 1903.

Manager MacCulloch has arranged a good schedule of games for both the 'varsity and scrub elevens. The schedule may possibly have one or two changes in the near future, at present it is as follows:

- Sept. 30. R. P. I. at Schenectady.
- Oct. 7. Columbia at Albany.
- Oct. 14. Williams at Williamstown.
- Oct. 18. Amherst at Amherst.
- Oct. 28. Wesleyan at New York.
- Nov. 4. Colgate at Schenectady.
- Nov. 11. Hamilton at Schenectady.
- Nov. 24. Hobart at Schenectady.

Clarence T. Lansing of Gloversville visited friends at the college last week.

MODERN BIBLE STUDY.

"The Bible," as the Greek signifies, is not one book but a whole library in itself. In one small volume which can be carried in the pocket or hand, is bound all the classic literature of one of the world's greatest peoples. But a high price has been paid for this compactness, for it has destroyed the whole literary structure of the Scriptures.

Modern scholarship, appreciating the beauty of the ancient literature of the Bible, has given it to us in its true literary form and structure. This has been accomplished to a large extent through the efforts of Prof. Richard G. Moulton, who has published a series of books called the "Modern Reader's Bible." Prof. Moulton's great aim has been to present the different parts of the Bible in the literary setting in which they first appeared. Where the writing is dramatic, names of speakers and divisions of speeches are given; where essays occur titles are attached to them; the great lyric poems are presented in their true literary form; history is distinguished from story, and the great orations are printed in their connected form. The text is that of the Revised Versions and all questions of authorship are excluded from the work.

During the last two years Dr. Truax has conducted a large class of students in a course of study based on Prof. Moulton's work. The text-book used was "Biblical Masterpieces," and the work for last year was on Isaiah and was most interesting.

Isaiah was found to be an orator of wondrous power, who had at his command the whole armory of rhetoric. It has been said that no more precious legacy of thought has come down to us than the conception of Isaiah of a golden age to come. The classic thought of Greece and Rome took an opposite course. Their golden age was in the remote past. But to the corruption and discouragement around him Isaiah holds up a picture of a glorious future to follow a purifying judgment. He was the great prophet-statesman of his time, and dealt with all the problems of his age. Many of them were the same as those that perplex nations today. Some of the questions he treats of are bribery; unjust judgment; oppression; drunkenness; usury; anarchy; short-sighted and deceitful diplomacy; and ideal statesmanship, based on the moral principles taught by Jewish history, and looking toward a union of nations in a movement toward a world-civilization suggested by the victories of Cyrus.

Isaiah's wonderful oratorical powers as he speaks on these problems are frequently obscured by the ordinary text, but with the aid of the Modern Reader's Bible and especially by means of the clear and forceful explanations of Dr. Truax, they appear with great strength.

The past year's work was highly appreciated by the members of the class, and they look forward with pleasure to the course for the present college year, which will be the Drama of Job.

G. ERNEST RAITT, 1900.

UNION AT THE NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

The student conference for Bible study and spiritual uplifting was held as usual at East Northfield, Mass., from June 30 to July 9. Union was as usual represented, this year by the following delegates: W. D. Brown, 1900; H. B. Jones, 1900; E. L. Winterberg, 1900; E. M. Sanders, 1900; S. S. Read, 1900; L. T. Hubbard, 1900; and Frazer Metzger, 1902. At Northfield students are thrown in touch with Christian men from all denominations and from all colleges, which in itself cannot help but be an inspiration, and the conference this summer was fully as successful as have been previous ones.

The speakers of the conference were men who need no introduction into the college world. Among them were: Robert E. Speer, John R. Mott, D. L. Moody, H. P. Beach, Robert P. Wilder, Rev. R. A. Torrey, and Rev. J. Wilber Chapman.

Gardiner Kline, 1901, spent a month at Honolulu this past summer.

FIRST COLLEGE MEETING.

Training Rules Adopted and Money Subscribed for Football.

An enthusiastic college meeting, the first of the year, took place on Monday morning. Prof. Pollard explained the first business of the day, the adoption of a fixed set of training rules. Formerly the captain has been allowed to use his discretion in regard to the conduct of his men and this fact has been conducive to a decided lack of regularity in the men's system of training. The strict enforcement of the new rules which he suggested and which were unanimously approved, will, however, insure a uniformity in the men's system of training, will improve it and will at the same time give the captain no option in carrying out the regulations. On the adoption of the resolutions, Captain Fenton rose and was greeted with a storm of cheers. He told of the plans for the season and gave a very encouraging opinion in regard to the situation.

The rules adopted are as follows:

1. In no case shall any member of a team indulge in tobacco or intoxicating liquors, except when latter is prescribed by physicians.
2. Members of teams shall be in their rooms at or before eleven o'clock at night.
3. Under no conditions shall members of teams attend dances or be out after ten o'clock on nights before games.
4. Members of teams shall report promptly for practice each day, and in case of inability to be present, shall report same to captain.
5. On trips members of teams shall promptly acknowledge the dictation of the captain and manager in regard to "turning in," "sight seeing," etc.
6. It shall be the duty of the captain to remove a member from the team after two violations of these rules.

The next business of the meeting was the matter of subscriptions toward the financial support of the team. Mr. Pollard called for cash at first and soon secured one hundred and fifty dollars in greenbacks. Pledges were then called for and in a short time the amount was carried up to over $700, distributed as follows:

THE TEMPLE OF LOVE.

Not for the rich alone, this structure grand,
Nor for the mighty in their chairs of state;
Nor yet alone for those whose magic hand
Portrays the secrets and the works of fate.
'Tis for the heart that veiled in purity
Cares not for outward show, but firm and fast,
Looks to the need that far and near may be,
And still remains the same when storms are past.
