EDWARD MACOMB

MARRIED: On Wednesday evening, by the Rev. Albert Smedes, of Christ Church, New York, Dr. Edward Macomb, U.S.A., to Anna, eldest daughter of the late Jacob Mancius.

Albany Argus
Feb. 6, 1835.

EDWARD D. MACOMB, A.M., 1819, a resident of Newark, N. J., was a member of the Philomathian Society. (Died: 1844)

Philomathian Catalogue 1830
EDWARD MACOMB

Married Anna Mancius, born August 13, 1809, presumably at Albany, N. Y. (She died July 9, 1893, at Roanoke, Va., in the home of her son, John Rose.) She was married February 4, 1835 by the Rev. Albert Smedes of Christ Church, New York City.

He was born-------; died March 26, 1844, at Fortress Monroe, Old Point Comfort, Elizabeth City County, Va., "buried at Old Point Comfort."

Dr Macomb was graduated from Union College, A. M. 1819, being registered from New York City.

He entered the U. S. Army as assistant surgeon January 20, 1824, attaining the rank of Major, Nov. 1, 1834.

He was the son of John Navarre Macomb (1774-1810; son of Alexander Macomb from County Antrim, Ireland, and Catherine Mavarre of French descent) and his wife Christina Livingston (Philip, the signer, Philip) whose brother Hon. Edward Philip Livingston had married Anna Mancius Macomb’s aunt Mary Crooke Brown in 1832.

Children:

1. Christina Georgina, b. Sept. 1, 1838, at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.; where her father was stationed; died Apr. 4, 1909, at St. Luke’s Hospital, Detroit, Mich., on whose executive staff she had been a member for many years.

   She married
   Rev. Robert Murray Duff.

Anna Mancius married (2) Nov. 28, 1850 at Poughkeepsie, Hon. Robert Lawson Rose of Allen’s Hill, Ontario Co., N. Y.

N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Record
Vol. 62 p. 250
July, 1931.