

CARR, JAMES W.

Graduated from Union College 1829 - A.B. Degree

The following information was taken from the Union College Student Records
First Term 1827-1828 to Second Term 1828-1829 and Third Term 1828-1829 to Third Term 1834-1835, in which he is listed as No.10:

	Academic Year 1827-1828- Junior Year
	First Term Ending December Examination	Second Term Ending April Examination	Third Term Ending July Examination
Attendance	99%	99%	99%
Conduct	100	100	100
Blair	65
Trigonometry	70
Natural History	75
Parley (?) Greek		75
Political Economy		75
Cicero de Oratore		90
Intellectual Philosophy			65
Natural Philosophy			60
French			70

	Academic Year 1828-1829 - Senior Year
	First Term Ending December Examination	Second Term Ending April Examination	Third Term Ending July Examination
Attendance	99%	98%
Conduct	100	100
Natural Philosophy	65
Chemistry	70	80
Kames	90	75
Astronomy		75

CLASS OF 1829.

JAMES W. CARR.

In the city of New York , on Friday morning, of palsy, after a week's illness, in the 24th year of age, James W. Carr. The death of Mr. Carr is a public loss. In the very morn of life--just as eminence and usefulness were opening their paths to his enobling ambition, he has been summoned to his eternal home. Graduating from Union College in 1830, he gave early promise of distinction in the line of his profession. His subsequent brief career confirmed these hopes, and adds to the poignancy of present grief for his loss. His death is attributed to intense application to the duties of his office, and diligence in preparing for the higher degree to which he was looking forward. He possessed many estimable qualities endearing him to those chosen to be his friends. To an elevated and independent mind he added great suavity and condescension; for kindness and urbanity of manners were the natural fruits of his charitable and affectionate disposition. He was also ever candid, frank, and of the strictest veracity. Suddenly prostrated, from the midst of health, on the bed of sickness he sought for peace in his dying hours from the heavenly consolation of the Gospel of the Redeemer; and earnestly besought the friends and relations, who were mourning his departure to secure an interest in the merits of Jesus Christ, by evangelical repentance and lively faith. He declared to them his full conviction that a religious life is the only preparation for a truly happy death.

The Whig
Schenectady
Sept. 2, 1834.

JAMES W. CARR, 1829, of Schenectady, N.Y., was a member of the Philomathean Society.
Philomathean Catalogue 1830 (Died: 1834)

James W. Carr A.B. 1829

James W. Carr

1829

F. B.