INTRODUCTION TO THE ARCHIVES OF THE
ASSOCIATION FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE ADIRONDACKS

(April, 1985)

Contents

The Archives of the Association for the Protection of the Adirondacks include reports, letters, maps, conference proceedings and other records pertaining to every substantial issue which has confronted the Adirondack Park and the Forest Preserve since 1901, when this Association was formed. At this writing, records extend through 1971, and comprise 85 volumes.

History of the Association

Over the past 84 years, this Association has played an active role as "Watchdog of the Forest Preserve," defending the "forever wild" protection afforded by the State Constitution against commercial, private and even governmental intrusions. Association members have included many knowledgeable and highly influential people who have worked individually and collectively whenever a threat was perceived to the Adirondack region.

The standard operating procedure for dealing with problems within the Forest Preserve has been to collect accurate information about pertinent issues, discuss the matters and poll the membership in order to reach agreement on solutions, and then to exert both public and private influences to help implement policies. Lobbying included significant correspondence with governmental officials, representation at public hearings and widespread publicity to inform and arouse public opinion.

Among the many controversial issues with which this Association has dealt are varying interpretations of the "forever wild" constitutional restrictions, adequacy of regulations and laws protecting natural resources, timber cutting on state lands, lumbering practices, road building through the Forest Preserve, dam construction within Park boundaries, railroading, forest fire protection, use of motorized vehicles within the Forest Preserve and appropriate development of recreational facilities. In more recent years members were heavily involved with The Temporary Study Commission for the Future of the Adirondacks and the creation of the Adirondack Park Agency with zoning of private and public lands.
History of the Archives

For some 50 years after this Association was established, it maintained an office in New York City at 19 Rector Street. In its earliest decades, it also employed a full-time executive secretary, who was extremely active in investigating, reporting and lobbying on a great variety of topics, under direction of the Trustees of the Association.

In 1967 the office was disbanded, and the Association records were stored with other library materials in the Schenectady residence of Paul Schaefer. After some 15 years, the Association took further steps to preserve these accumulating materials. The oldest were already suffering from age, mildew and insect infestations because of early storage conditions. The entire collection of documents were microfilmed and xeroxed, and then the originals were placed in the vault of the Adirondack Museum at Blue Mountain Lake, where atmospheric controls afford maximum protection.

The Xerox copies were retained by Paul Schaefer, as working records and these were donated to the Adirondack Research Center at Union College, when it was formed in 1979. This central location in the Capital District facilitates public usage of these Archives.

When the materials were received by the Adirondack Research Center in 1979, a group of volunteers began to organize and index them. Items were arranged in chronological order, hole-punched, and installed in custom binders, inscribed with the name and logo of the Association. Papers in poor condition were Xeroxed to preserve their contents, and legal-sized documents were reduced photographically, in order to fit the binders. Particularly fragile or valuable items were protected by inclusion in pockets or acid free folders.
Format of the Register

At this writing, early in 1985, the Archives include about 85 volumes, covering the years 1901 to 1971. An inventory of their contents has been compiled year by year. One copy accompanies the collection, another has been sent to the Adirondack Museum, a third has been presented to the President of the Association for the Protection of the Adirondacks, and a fourth to Paul Schaefer. A fifth copy and other records are retained by the volunteers who are continuing work upon this project.

In addition, a listing of the contents of each volume appears in the front of the volume.

The format of these listings has changed several times, and some explanation is necessary to explain the lack of uniformity. Changes evolved slowly as the nature of the materials posed different problems.

1901-1912: First Form. These oldest records include printed pagination from the organization's secretary. His order has been retained except that we have used the calendar year as a logical separation of volumes, although the Association's official year ran from April to April.

1913-1920: Second Form. Printed pagination ceased, so we began adding our own pagination, but then simplified the task by numbering items, instead of every page. (Most items are multi-page reports.)

1921-1923: Third Form. No pagination. In order to retain chronological order, we ceased numbering the items, so that it became easier to insert additional materials which turned up later. The key is simply chronological arrangement.

1924-1939: Second Form with many additions inserted by penciled notation. When these are retyped the third form will be used.

1940-1955: Third Form.

1956-1970: Fourth Form, Summary index. Instead of listing every single item, as done previously, routine meeting announcements and minutes and items of lesser interest have been omitted. An issue-oriented outline form was developed because of the enormous quantity of material contained in these years. Some years are three volumes long!

1971---- Materials from these years are not complete. We hope to update the last 15 years of the Archives when the materials become available.

Note to researchers: The annual report and minutes of trustees meetings for each year contain good summaries of all the major concerns for each year.

A number of auxiliary collections complement these Archives. These include the Louis Marshall Papers, the Johns S. Apperson Papers and the complete file of the battle over the Panther Mountain Dam.
PERSONNEL NOTES AND FUTURE PLANS

A core of volunteer archivists have been working on these papers for five years. These have included Kathy Fogarty, Edith Pilcher, Edith Wolf, Midge Hayden, Diana Striniac, Susan Borgese and Cynthia Robinson.

At this writing, a move is imminent for the Adirondack Research Center Collection to the Schenectady Museum. Affiliation with Union College will be retained. Temporary quarters are under preparation; eventually, we hope to develop more extensive housing. Our immediate goals for this Collection include retyping the entire register in one uniform format and cross-indexing the most important topics. Acquisition of our own word processor and photocopying machine are essential for such a task.
Key to special terms and notes of explanation.

* Volume numbers and pagination where Vol. number is indicated refer to original bound volumes housed at Blue Mtn. Museum Library.

* Pagination without reference to Vol. number is our own pagination for organizing purposes where original Vol. number was not clear.

* (double pages) -- indicates two xeroxed sheets in the archive for each actual page number.

* Odd pieces of material for a particular year are added in at the end of the year (in box and on index).

* (Legal papers) -- copies of proposed amendments from the state assembly and senate.

* Where thought to be helpful, notes have been added to clarify the contents of a document or the identity of a person. Notes are in parentheses immediately following the entry they concern.
