

CLASS OF 1816.

SAMUEL H. ROBBINS.

Died---At Pass Christian, on the 17th of August last, Samuel H. Robbins, Esq., late of New Orleans, Attorney at law. He was killed in a duel by James C. Biddle, Esq. Mr. Robbins was a graduate of Union College. With talents and perseverance superior to most young men, he had in less than two years after finishing his collegiate course, passed through a course of law studies and gained admission last spring at the bar of New Orleans. There was a frankness in his disposition, and a gentleness in his manners, that endeared him to all his acquaintances. In the honors of his class, he had assigned him the Latin Salutatory for Commencement Day. His mind was rapid and comprehensive in its determinations and his actions were always marked with decision. From the early dawnings of his genius his friends and his country had much to expect. The following notice given in a New Orleans paper: "Mr. Robbins was a native of Connecticut and had resided but a short time in this city; but his modest and unassuming manners and upright conduct had gained him many friends. He was a man of a liberal and independent mind, and possessed a large share of those feelings which do honor to the human character." Schoharie Budget.
