

VOLUME 1 NUMBER 1 (Winter, 1994)

Prerogative: A Description of the Adirondack Journal of Environmental Studies

A Park in the Forest, Michael G. DiNunzio

The Promise and Pitfalls of Sustainable Development, Stephen C. Trumbulak

Wilderness and the Working Landscape, Thomas Pasquarello, Robert B. Buerger and Gary Randorf

Adirondack Forest Communities and Climate Change, Stephen T. Jackson

VOLUME 1 NUMBER 2 (Fall, 1994)

Prerogative: Sustainable Development and The Search for Common Ground

The Adirondacks: A Road Back, Dale French

The Adirondacks: An Overview, Howard L. Aubin

Land Acquisition in the Adirondacks, Richard B. Purdue

A.A.T.V. A Definition, a Direction, Dean D. Lefebvre

Sustainable Watershed Management, Robin Ulmer

Investigating Adirondack Lakes, J. Curt Stager

The Adirondack Research Consortium: A New Voice in the Adirondacks, Thomas Pasquarello

PEER REVIEWED ANALYSIS

Adirondack Perceptions of the Forest Products Industry, Robert B. Buerger

VOLUME 2 NUMBER 1 (Spring, 1995)

Prerogative: Devolution: The Role of Empowerment in Sustainable Development

A Vision of the Adirondack Park, George O. Nagle

New Roads, New Directions, Lee Wasserman

Crossing the Blue Line, Claire Barnett

Sustainable Development: Putting It into Practice, G. Gordon Davis

Moose in New York: Past, Present, and Future, Al Hicks

VOLUME 2 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 1995)

Prerogative: The Adirondacks as an International Model

From My Perspective, Dean D. Lefebvre

The Adirondack Park: A Look Back, A Look Ahead, Philip G. Terrie

The Uses of Bog River's Ruins, Michael Wilson

The Role of Private Preserves in the Adirondack Park, Edward Comstock, Jr.

VOLUME 3 NUMBER 1 (Spring/Summer 1996)

Prerogative: Sharing Nature's Gifts and Their Costs

You Can't Go Home Again, Michael G. DiNunzio

The Impact of Beech Bark Disease on the Northern Hardwood Forests of the Adirondacks, Richard W. Sage, Jr.

MAB, Maps, and Method: An Adirondack Expression of How Small Events Have Larger World Significance, William R. Burch, Jr.

PEER REVIEWED ANALYSIS

The Geography of Environmentalism in Water Resources Planning in the Lake Champlain Basin, Bryan Higgins and Richard Kujawa

VOLUME 3 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 1996)

Prerogative: Energy: the Fifth 'E' in Sustainable Development

Acid Rain: So What? Dale French

Playing Within The Rules, Rod Johnson

Forest Resources on Private Land Within the Adirondack Park, Richard H. Widmann and Dave A. Drake

Causes and Coalitions for River Conservation in the Adirondacks 1945 - 1996, David H. Gibson

A Proposed Adirondack Wilderness Planning Strategy, Chad P. Dawson

VOLUME 4 NUMBER 1 (Spring/Summer 1997)

Prerogative: Academia's Role in Promoting Sustainable Development

Alliance With Nature in the Adirondack Park, Paul Gutmann

A Brief History of Elk Introduction in the Adirondacks, Glenn Harris

Protecting the Islands in the Sky: Lessons From Conserving the High Alpine Communities, Peter G. Redmond

Paleolimnological Evidence Indicates Adirondack Lake Acidification Due to Atmospheric Inputs, J. Curt Stager

VOLUME 4 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 1997)

Prerogative: Property Rights or Wrongs?

"Contested Terrain," by Phil Terrie, Reviewed by Glenn Harris

Save Whitney Park! John Sheehan

A Great Lot is Developing, Christine Snide

The Adirondack Park in the 21st Century: Part I, Elizabeth Thorndike

Sustainable Community Development: The Churches' Stake, Earl Arnold

The Indian Lake Experience: Living and Earning in the Adirondack Park, Jerry Rosenthal

Sustaining Economic Development in the Adirondack Park, Ernest Hohmeyer

VOLUME 5 NUMBER 1 (Spring/Summer 1998)

Prerogative: Wilderness Trammled and Trampled

"Through the Light Hole," by Patrick Farrell, Reviewed by Richard Cipperly

"With Wilderness at Heart" by Bruce Wadsworth, Reviewed by Todd Thomas

Wolves for the Adirondacks? Nina Fascione and Stephen Kendrot

It Doesn't Make Sense, William D. Hutchens

The Adirondack Roots of America's Wilderness Preservation Movement, Ed Zahniser

The Adirondack Park in the 21st Century: Part II, Elizabeth Thorndike

The Adirondack North Country Association: Perspectives on Sustainable Economic Development, Terry deFranco Martino

Change and Opportunity in the Northern Forest, Andrea Colnes

VOLUME 5 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 1998)

Prerogative: Finding Common Ground in Balanced Progress

"Living with the Adirondack Forest," by Katherine Henshaw Knott, Reviewed by Eliza Darling

"Verplanck Colvin Appreciated," R. Lynn Matson reviews Paul Schaefer's (ed.) Adirondack Explorations: Nature Writings of Verplanck Colvin and Nina Webb's Footsteps through the Adirondacks: The Verplanck Colvin Story.

Adirondackers for Access and Justice for All, Ted Galusha

The Forest Preserve Movement versus Mechanization, David Gibson

Local Voices in Conservation, Kirk Peterson

The End of an Era: An Interview with Forest Ranger Pete Fish, Jim Kraus

Rooted in Rock: The Case for a True Adirondack Literature, Jim Gould

PEER REVIEWED COMMENTARY

Sustainable Development and the Adirondack Experience, Jon Erickson

VOLUME 6 NUMBER 1 (Spring/Summer 1999)

Prerogative: A Special Place

Art, Education and the Adirondacks, Naj Wikoff

The Future of Adirondack Guiding, Charles Brumley

Lake Champlain Basin Program: Implementing an Evolving Plan for Lake Champlain's Future, Colleen Hickey

All Roads Lead to Keeseville: A Thoroughly Awake Little Village, Ann Ruzow Holland

The Adirondacks: It's Not a Model; It's a Mess, Barbara McMartin

PEER REVIEWED COMMENTARY

A Methodology for Assessing Regional Economic Activity: The Adirondack Park 1989-1998, Robert P. Worthington and Robert L. Christopherson

VOLUME 6 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 1999)

Prerogative: The Ark of the Adirondacks

"The Adirondack Park: A Wildlands Quilt" Reviewed by Jeff Flagg

Adirondack Literature, Compiled by Al Schwartz

Guiding Outdoor Recreation Toward the Land Ethic, Charles J. List

Perspectives on an Adirondack Landscape, Cali Brooks

Blue Line Labor: an Update of Employment and Payrolls in the Adirondack Park, Alan Biedeck

VOLUME 7 NUMBER 1 (Spring/Summer 2000)

Prerogative: A Decade of the Oughts

"The Story of Vermont," Reviewed by Glenn McRae

Empty Spaces Offer a World of Opportunity, Heidi Kretser

On the 1967 Proposal for an Adirondack Mountains National Park, Thomas L. Cobb

The 1995 Adirondack Blowdown: An Analysis of the Ecological and Sociological Phenomena, Jonathan Meade

Adirondack Gold: A Photographic Essay, Kenneth J. Rimany et al.

Acid Rain in the Adirondacks: A Time of Change! Karen Roy et al.

VOLUME 7 NUMBER 2 (Fall/Winter 2000)

Prerogative: Being Permitted

The Other Half of a "Forever Wild" Park: Education and Research at the Visitor Interpretive Center, Mike Rechlin, Mark Twery, Gary Wade and Mike Storey

Message from the President, Jon Erickson

The Natural History Museum of the Adirondacks: A Center for Scientific Inquiry and Inspiration, Betsy Lowe

Black Fly Control the Adirondack Way, Mary S. Rutley

"Forever Wild and Wild Philosophy: the Adirondacks and Environmental Ethics, Wayne Ouderkirk

The Wilderness Sense of Place, Barry Henck

VOLUME 8 NUMBER 1 (Spring 2001)

Prerogative: A Question of Size

Northern Forest Wealth Index: Exploring a Deeper Meaning of Wealth, Michael Wilson

Black Fly Control, the Adirondack Experience, Mary S. Rutley

The Adirondack Journal of Environmental Studies is expanding its regional focus

PEER REVIEWED

Adirondack Rustic Furniture Industry: Survey and Prospect, Jack Elliott

Did Reclamation Pollute Black Pond? J. Curt Stager

Local Governments and Watershed Management: Lessons for the Adirondacks, Timothy D. Schaeffer and Valerie A. Luzadis

VOLUME 8 NUMBER 2 (Fall 2001)

Prerogative: Greening Tourism

Governor's Commission on the Adirondacks in the 21st Century: Personal Reflections, Ross S. Whaley

George Canon, Supervisor, Town of Newcomb, Kirk Peterson

Conservation and the Under-Represented, Louis C. Curth

Holding the forest: Redistributing rights in land to further both conservation and equity, Deb Brighton

National Community Forestry Center: Community Forestry + Participatory Research = Healthy Communities and Healthy Forests, Debra Mason